

Job Opportunity: Product Consultant

Summary

475 is a rapidly growing Brooklyn-based startup that distributes and consults on building components. We're focused on transforming the US construction marketplace from coast-to-coast toward low-energy, high-performance building design. We seek a highly motivated Product Consultant interested in working with architects, engineers, builders, and project owners to optimize high performance solutions for energy efficient buildings. The position may be part-time or full-time, depending on individual circumstances – but working toward full time over the course of the first year. Compensation will be based on commissions and per activity executed.

We are currently looking for sales consultants for the following cities/regions:

- Mid-Atlantic Region (NJ, PA, MD, DE, DC, VA)

Responsibilities

- Make regular office presentations regarding different aspects of high performance construction: airtightness, moisture control, ventilation, roof daylighting etc...
- Provide local technical support to building professionals, including office and job site visits.
- Actively engage with local trade associations and training programs.
- Attend regional trade shows, representing 475

Desired Qualities

- Experience with high performance building practices
- Possess an understanding of Passive House design
- Strong interest in building science and building details
- Familiarity with regional architecture and engineering firms
- Excellent communication skills, in person, over phone and by email
- Proactive with a strong work ethic
- Ability to work well both independently and as a member of a team

Background

- Architect, engineer and/or sustainable construction consultant
